

Nick Dannemiller elected Order of the Arrow National Chief for 2014

Dallas, Texas- Nick Dannemiller has been elected the Order of the Arrow's National Chief for 2014. He elected by a caucus of section chiefs at the Order's annual National Planning Meeting in Dallas, Texas on Dec. 27.

The Order of the Arrow serves as the Boy Scouts of America's national honor society and for more than 90 years the Order has recognized individuals who best exemplify brotherhood, cheerfulness, and service, the core values of the organization.

Hailing from Portland, Oregon, Dannemiller will lead a membership base of 178,000 members worldwide and is the first Scout from the Pacific Northwest to reach the office of National Chief.

Nick is currently an honors student studying wildlife biology at Colorado State University and aspires one day to be a wildlife veterinarian. Outside of the Order and class, he stays involved through serving as an associate justice for the Associated Students of Colorado State University Supreme Court.
